DETAILED ACTION

Oath/Declaration

The oath or declaration is defective. A new oath or declaration in compliance with 37 CFR 1.67(a) identifying this application by application number and filing date is required. See MPEP §§ 602.01 and 602.02.

The oath or declaration is defective because:

Ms. Allain has signed the date in French and not in English.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1 and 6 are confusing since ACE has not been spelled out. It would be clearer if applicant simply inserted, "angiotension-converting enzyme" before, "ACE" and also put "ACE" in parenthesis.

Further the term, "suppressing" is vague and indefinite. It would be clearer if applicant used "inhibit" since this clearly defines what the composition does.

In claim 6, "said regimen" has no antecedent basis. It is suggested that applicant insert, "treatment", in place of "regimen".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by JP 04082898 (JP).

JP teaches that an aqueous solution of whey protein isolate is hydrolyzed with a proteolytic enzyme (proteinase) to produce an ACE inhibitor, see entire reference, especially the example. It further teaches that the composition is heated at 90 °C to deactivate the enzyme. Finally, the composition is freeze dried. JP teaches that the composition can be used to decrease blood pressure and prevent hypertension. It states that the composition can be taken orally by humans.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 04082898 (JP).

JP teaches that an aqueous solution of whey protein isolate is hydrolyzed with a proteolytic enzyme (proteinase) to produce an ACE inhibitor, see entire reference, especially the example. It further teaches that the composition is heated at 90 °C to deactivate the enzyme. Finally, the composition is freeze dried. JP teaches that the composition can be used to decrease blood pressure and prevent hypertension. It states that the composition can be taken orally by humans.

JP does not expressly teach that the ACE inhibitor is given in amounts and at intervals effective to suppress ACE activity.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to administer the composition of JP in amounts and at intervals effective to suppress ACE activity since such amounts and intervals are simply the choice of the artisan in an effort to optimize the results and the routine practitioner would know that compositions such as the composition of JP can be given at different dosage intervals and in effective amounts of the composition. Through routine experimentation, it would be obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to determine such effective amounts and dosage intervals to be used with the composition of JP since common amounts and dosage intervals are routinely used in the art.
